Who Has Raided Whom?

IN a recent reference to the pending re-negotiation of Dominion-provincial tax agreements, The Winnipeg Free Press made a bitter attack on British Columbia fiscal policy which was unwarranted by the facts of the case and misrepresented the facts themselves. Since the Free Press obviously understands the basis of these contracts, and since it has made similar and equally unjustified accusations in the past, one can only conclude that the misrepresentation is intentional. We are at a loss to understand what is behind it, for usually the Winnipeg paper is eminently fair and accurate in its editorial comment.

Under the current five-year agreements, to expire March 31 next, all the original nine provinces—except Ontario and Quebec—ceded to the federal government income and corporation tax fields which are inalienably their own. In return, the provinces receive annual rental payments amounting in the case of British Columbia to $39,331,000 this year. The Free Press editorial, headed "A Raid on Ottawa," says peevishly that apparently this rental is not enough to satisfy British Columbia, though actual figures recently are beside the question of the principle involved, and that the provincial government evidently supports the view that any new agreement should give this province more money.

The Winnipeg paper may be correct there, it goes on to state, however, that extra money for B.C. would come "out of the federal treasury—that is to say, out of the purses of the Canadian taxpayers at large." That is not to say anything of the sort, as the Free Press knows very well. Under the current agreement it is the federal treasury which is primarily disproportionately from extractions—fees—the purses of British Columbia taxpayers. Far from grasping money from Ottawa, this province has been surrendering to the national treasury with both hands money which constitutionally belongs to the people of this province and to which the Dominion has no color of right. Ontario and Quebec retained the tax fields given to the provinces under the B.N.A. Act, to their marked advantage, and if B.C. had done likewise the national treasury, for which the Free Press shows so much solicitude, would have been poorer today.

The constitution expressly protected certain tax fields for the use of the provinces, and when a provincial government circumvents the B.N.A. Act by "renting" them to the Dominion it has a paramount obligation to its own taxpayers to see that the rent is fair. The spiteful comments of the Free Press and the motives it imputes to the B.C. government grossly distort the facts and circumstances. This province has been too generous already, and its government would be seriously neglectful of provincial tax rights if it gave them away for another five years without requiring a more equitable return.

The Issue Brightens

ANNOUNCEMENT that the attorney-general's department will appeal the water rights controller's decision to allow damming of Butte Lake will be welcomed by all who fear for the result, should the power commission get into Strathcona Park with a free hand. It should lighten the conservationists to whom it seemed that a legal technicality would be used to block further representations by them on this controversial issue.

Most important of all it suggests that the government is leaning head to the storm of protest which this project aroused all over the island. Coupled with the Premier's promise that the whole matter will be debated at the next session, this latest development offers a degree of assurance hitherto lacking.

Much more than debate is expected from the legislature when it meets, of course. The public is hopeful that M.L.A.'s, in whom is vested the sole authority for changing the original trust deed of Strathcona Park, will put a crimp in the power-commission's plans and force it to seek another dam site, one that will not ruin Butte Lake after the fashion of its other exploitations.

What had been feared by many was that the legislature would be faced by a fait accompli, and that the power commission would have got to work before the House met. The appeal to be formulated by the attorney-general's department should remove this apprehension, by prolonging the issue until at least the eve of the session.

If people are still suspicious about government intentions in this matter there is ample reason. The cabinet is to be commended for stepping in now as it is doing, but all doubts would be removed if the government would formally declare that nothing whatsoever will be done at Butte Lake until the House meets, and that the fate of the lake will rest with the legislature and the legislature alone—as it should.

What About the Informers?

EVERY sympathy will be felt in this community for the position of loyal Chinese who have relatives in Communist-occupied territory across the Pacific. Attempts at extortion were perhaps to have been expected as part of the Communist way. Long before that, however, Victoria Chinese were under considerable strain from a galloping inflation in China, and were pleading their savings and their credit in efforts to lessen the effects of inflation in the homes of relatives overseas. Red Chinese occupations of their old homeland has intensified all that and added the upsetting reality of extortion and physical fear for absent relatives and friends.

Under foreign exchange controls Canada could place an embargo against the export of Canadian funds to Red China, and while that would relieve the individual from responding to extortion it would also cut off all other remittances and completely stop trade. In short, such a remedy could hardly be considered feasible. On the other hand there is nothing to stop loyal Chinese who subject to extortion coming forward with whatever evidence they may be able to give as to the identity of the extortionists and, still more important to us, the informers—Canadian soil. It is an open secret that there are Communist Chinese here and there in Canada. If they are adopting the role of informer they can and should be exposed out. All such express knowledge if placed in the hands of the R.C.M.P. would be most helpful, and might go far to breaking up at least the Canadian contacts of these extortion rings.

HELPED IN ACCIDENT

Sir—May we, through your newspaper, say thanks to the people who so kindly helped us when our little boy fell from our car going to wards Parsons Bridge? The young couple who gave first aid, the gentleman who phoned for the police, the constable who got us to hospital, and the nurse and doctor who attended David.

SOCIAL CREDIT

Sir—If Dr. Evans relies on the orthodox economists to do his thinking for him in regard to Social Credit he should read at least two books. First, no one has yet disproved Douglas' mathematical solution showing why the present system of debiting ourselves with the result of our increase is not self liquidating. Second, that economists like Keynes, Marshall and Leacock rebuffed their earlier teaching and while not using the words social credit did in fact endorse its main findings. Leacock, who taught economics for 40 years in our universities had this to say:

"Our current economics of the schools is of no help—just a jumble of mathematical jargon, all plots and graphs and curves, signifying nothing. Political economy has turned out to be the idiot boy. Now sitting in a corner cowering to himself as he counts his fingers. For the idiot boy lost his wits when they taught him to count in money instead of counting in things—no longer reckoning in farms and fields and forest but in finance and funds ask the idiot boy what happens when 2,000,000 men are thrown out of work for lack of funds and he starts to stagger."

"Don't let it unduly impress you that Mr. So-and-so is a medalist on political science at such-and-such a university. The whole science of economics is a wreck. There is as much light in the older economics as there is in a glow worm. Economics as taught in the history of disapproved theories. Therefore, use your brains on the evidence before you."

PURE MILK

Sir—I would appreciate it some kind reader would advise why it is necessary to make it illegal to sell milk containing over a certain amount of butter fat?

I have always understood that medical science has proved that pure, healthy cows' milk is the most perfect food especially for growing children. The government has veterinary surgeons testing dairy herds to see they are healthy and cared for under sanitary conditions. The only law required is to see that milk sold to the public is not below a set standard.

If some milk is a little richer than others so much the better. Why should an honest, hard working farmer or dairyman be prosecuted for refusing to adulterate his milk with water. This is beyond understanding.

DENNIS H. CHIVERS,

BUTTE LAKE

Sir—The real point over the question of damming Butte Lake and loading off these parts that will be flooded is not whether this will benefit our economy now, but rather whether such a procedure infringes on the rights of Strathcona Park.

It could be said that it would be remunerative to sell some of Beacon Hill Park for residential purposes, and that it would be a paying proposition to lose Stanley Park.

Our provincial legislators should note that any infringement on our parks, whether civic, provincial or federal, is of course quite wrong and unethical.

Touchy Topic

By FRANK KELLEY

ONE cannot help but applaud the untiring efforts directed by some of our citizens to the worthy object of protecting animals, domestic and otherwise, from exploitation, whether it be in the sombre cages of a zoological park or the brilliantly lit "act" of a circus performance.

Me, I never got any pleasure out of watching an animal making the confined rounds of its cage under an apparently high nervous tension. Nor have I had at any time a brief for any zoo-managing committee favouring caged animal exhibits or exhibitors of so-called trained animals. Briefs are not necessary in any event; for we all must admit that both ways of showing off animals are popular from the spectator standpoint or there would not be any excuse for either form of "savagery" as some style the practices.

No doubt one is willing to admit the plausibility there have been and will continue to be examples of gross cruelty practised in the training of wild animals, but one can still wonder at the same time if the cruelty rule is the one most generally applied before an animal can be made to look like a "king of beasts" and be worthy of some applause for the "intelligence" it displays at times.

All of which by the way, Without any intent of promoting more than casual interest in the matter, I was guilty of writing a little piece which appeared in the magazine section of this paper several weeks ago. It had to do with some performing lions, apparently well behaved, and what their trainer had told the about kindness being his best medium in getting them to behave as they did. There was no reason to doubt him, and I still believe that it is how he personally achieved his "mastery" over those particular specimens of lions.

Well, that little bit about "A lion show of long ago" had a quick repercussion or two. I was informed by phone, although it is reported I always tried to record things as I saw and heard them, just to keep the record straight that I was "all well," that there was no such word as kindness in the lexicon of anyone who would exploit animals for personal gain; while a day or two later came a sheaf of leaflets from the Performing and Caged Animals Protective League, Vancouver, setting forth some atrocities incident to the exploitation of performing animals in general.

Let me say more power to the influence of the organization that can set the ways of life for bird and animal. But why are we not consistent as well as persistent in any campaign of mercy? It is easy to imagine a gandy who would not claim the owner was cruel in any degree—might be just as unhappy in a pillory cage as a lion could be behind the iron bars of its enclosure.

Thinking so we also wonder if the average champion of "no cruelty" has as wide a knowledge of pain as William Shakespeare had when it comes to life in general. You will remember he said something about the veriest insect in its degree of suffering feeling pangs as fearful as those experienced by a giant.

There are some people who do. May be not many. This is a reminder of long ago. The locale was Burdett Avenue, near the gateway to Bishop's Cope. Walking towards Vancouver Street, I could not help but notice a lady coming from that direction. She seemed to be "avoiding" something under fast, picking her steps, as it were. The mystery was solved when she drew my attention to a large number of ants swarming back and forth across the sidewalk, as ants have a habit of doing. Pointing at them, she asked me to be careful where I stepped.

Reports From Ottawa

THE Vancouver Motor Dealers Association got under the skins of members of parliament with its recent series of newspaper advertisements depicting M.P.'s as sleeping on the job, and Finance Minister Abbott as a pickpocket.

"Security holes," cried George Furlford (P.C., Leeds, Ont.), James Sinclair, Liberal M.P. for the riding of Coast—Capilano, which is adjacent to Vancouver, and parliamentary assistant to Abbott, said the ads were as scurrilous as Communist propaganda. He wrote the Vancouver auto dealers to tell them so.

Every M.P. received copies of the ads, by tongue-in-cheek courtesy of the association. One ad showed Abbott reporting his budgetary surplus show more than $600,000,000, to M.P.'s asleep in the Commons chamber. The closed eyes of some of the M.P.'s were indicated by dollar signs—presumably in reference to their supposed satisfaction with their parliamentary incomes of $10,000 this year. Punch line, spoken by a little merrily in a jolly way: "These boys are doing all right, but you and I can't afford to buy a better car."

Another ad depicted a "Canadian workman" and family admiring a new car in a show window, while a truck-coated, pickpocket labeled "Abbott" removed the dollars from the workman's pocket which the latter might have used to buy the car.

What the auto dealers are incensed about, of course, is their falling sales. They attribute these to high federal taxes and credit restrictions, which require a down payment of half the cost of a new car, and allow only 12 months in which to pay the balance.

For Canada's Soldiers

(From The Ottawa Citizen)

TO a considerable degree, Canadian forces in Korea have had to depend for comforts on British auxiliary services. Canadian services have not been established, although organizations such as the Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, Y.M.C.A. and Canadian Legion appear willing to undertake this task, as they did in the last war. The time seems ripe for the department of national defense to review its policy on this question.

Dependence seems to have been placed on British auxiliary services largely because the Canadian authorities felt that the 25th Brigade would not be in Korea long enough to make a Canadian welfare organization worth while. This view that Canadian participation in the Korean campaign is only temporary is as likely to be wishful thinking as not. Even if an armistice is signed within the next month or two, it is entirely possible that Canada will have to contribute ground forces to help maintain the security of South Korea until a political settlement is reached there. It would be only prudent to plan Canada's part in defeating aggression in Korea on a long-term basis.

There is therefore every reason why Canada should organize its own auxiliary services in Korea. British services are no doubt excellent, but they are, after all, designed to serve British troops, whose taste in books, magazines, chocolate bars, sports equipment, and even the strength of their tea is different from that of Canadians. Moreover, Canada's overseas forces now include a brigade in Germany, and it may be expected to remain there for years. It, too, would welcome the auxiliary services. Welfare services might well be established with a view to catering to two overseas brigades.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

BIRDS having outwitted fore-limbs, forefeet, claws or hoofs in favor of wings, have been obliged to develop some sort of compensation for the loss of these useful fore-limbs in the matter of handling and eating their food.

Snakes, having abandoned limbs entirely, developed the trick of ingesting their food.

To make up for the loss of front grippers, birds have developed the most extraordinary muscular construction in their skulls and jaws. A bird's beak is not a rigid projection from its skull. The upper and lower mandibles are like lips, and fleshy, and can be pulled back and forth, and can be extended, depressed, retracted, in a great variety of movements, depending on the species of bird and the food it has to eat. In the small sick-headed bird are muscles, and sliding devices of enormous power, considering the size of the creature.

There will be starlings around for most of us to watch this winter. They to observe the starling feeding on the ground. It drives its closed beak into the earth, and the grass roots, then pries its beak open with a force hardly believable, thus tearing a small hole in the ground. The movement is the reverse of a pair of pliers. The starling's eyes are so set and so movable, that it can look straight down between gaping beak, to see what food, seed, insect or succulent root, has been revealed in their powerful, prying effort of the beak. With great speed, the starling takes a rapid, moving, quickly from each one to the next, if nothing is revealed, passing to start with tongue of beak anything that appears.

Hardly this, that is what a bird's beak is. And depending on whether it is a seed eater that must shell and skin its seeds, or an insect eater that must probe and pry after insects or catch them with wide gaping mouth on the wing, each species has its own style of beak. They are a lot more skilled in their function than many kinds of animals' forefeet.

Ousting the Radio Tube

By THOMAS R. HENRY

Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

SOME of the most revolutionary developments in history are pointed by a tiny speck of metal which need not be more than a thousandth of an inch square, and which, it appears, can fulfill all the functions of a vacuum tube.

Even the tiniest possible vacuum tube is a super giant compared with this new device, the transistor. Vacuum tubes always are likely to blow out, causing the failure of the apparatus which depends on it, as well as considerable expense to radio and television engineers. A transistor never can blow out, or, for that matter, have anything else happen to it.

Size is an extremely important factor. When the proximity fuse, now almost a fundamental of war, was proposed first in the Second World War, it was considered an impossibility, because of the difficulty of getting vacuum tubes small enough to fit into a fuse, and at the same time, rugged enough to stand being shot from a gun. A great deal of the development work consisted in producing such a tube. Had the transistor been in existence, all this would have been eliminated.

Developed originally in the laboratories of the Bell Telephone Company, transistors are expected to revolutionize electronics throughout the country. At the United States Bureau of Standards, they are being incorporated into calculating machines, where size is of the utmost importance, of batteries and undrained of battery.

The heart of the transistor is a speck of the relatively rare metal, germanium. This usually is found in combination with silver and sulphur, and has no commercial value until its unique electrical properties were discovered.

The speck of germanium, specially treated, usually is enclosed in some kind of plastic about the size of a pea. The newest type of transistor, Bureau of Standards engineers say, occupies about 1/100th of a cubic inch, whereas the smallest miniature vacuum tube fills about 1/10th of a cubic inch.

Power consumption, according to a report from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is remarkably low. The signal level often found in modern electronic equipment is about a millionth of a watt, but a full watt of power is required ordinarily by conventional vacuum tubes to amplify this signal.

This is about like sending a 12-car freight train, locomotive and all, to carry a pound of butter. The new transistor, unlike any earlier amplifier, can be operated with a power of about a millionth of a watt, which is just sufficient to carry the signal.

Transistors can be operated as simply as vacuum tubes, and television circuits, and to provide the functions of detection and amplification such as are found in an ordinary radio set.

Bureau of Standards electronics engineers stressed that the revolution cannot be expected to come overnight. For one thing, much expensive redesigning of circuits would be necessary to convert present apparatus,

Victoria West United to Mark Birthday

A special service celebrating the 39th anniversary of Victoria West United Church on the corner of Raynor and Fullerton will be conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday by the minister, Rev. S. V. H. Redman.

The present building was dedicated Dec. 1, 1912, by the late Rev. James Wood.

The first Victoria West United Church was built through the initiative of four prominent Victoria men: Chris Smoore, William Dunnington, Arthur Lee and J. H. Baker. It was constructed in 1890 at the corner of Wilson and Catherine, where it stood for 22 years.

An anniversary turkey dinner will be held in the church hall at 4 p.m. Monday. J. G. Brown will be guest speaker.

Victoria's sixth annual Christmas Carol Festival will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 14 in Metropolitan United Church.

The Victoria Lions Club will again sponsor this year's presentation of the popular yuletide musical and song-filled program. There will be no admission charge for the two-hour festival, and it will be open to the public. In past years capacity crowds have attended, and many persons have had to be turned away.

Dr. Clifford Carl, chairman of the Lions Club committee in charge of arrangements, reports the festival will feature Christmas carols sung by choir-groups from Greater Victoria High Schools. They will sing under the direction of Harry Rigby, director of music for Greater Victoria schools.

In addition, there will be bell-ringing selections by four church organ music by Edgar-Holway and a number of instrumental numbers.

The business of sending Christmas cards is now a multi-million dollar industry. It is one of the most important of the seasonal businesses.

Tree Harvest Not Wasteful

Problems which have been discussed in the past are that the purchase of Christmas trees is wasteful. But the Christmas tree is not a waste.

They explain that nearly half of the 21,000,000 evergreens that are harvested in Canada are used for Christmas trees.

These five varieties make up 83 per cent of all the Christmas trees used in the United States each year.

Your Tree Fire Trap

It is a good idea to check your Christmas tree for fire hazards. Make sure the lights are properly connected and that the tree is not too close to the fireplace.

Puritans Took Frivolity Out of England's Yule

The Puritans of the 17th century took a very different view of Christmas. They considered it a frivolous and wasteful holiday and sought to suppress its traditions.

Artist's Image

A rosy, jolly elf, pink-cheeked and with snowy beard and mustache, then you carry the image of him as he was created about 1800.

It was not until 1823 that the first illustration of Santa Claus appeared in the United States. It was a jolly, portly man with a white beard and a red suit. He was carrying a sack of gifts and a whip.

Today Santa Claus has remained pretty much the same. He is a jolly, portly man with a white beard and a red suit. He is carrying a sack of gifts and a whip.

Strange Noises, $100,000 Bills, New Messes in Santa's Bag

Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C., Sat., Dec. 1, 1951

Mother's little helpers may start looking for little helpers of their own size when they get this toy kitchen set which has kiddie-size dish drainer, soap, mop and scouring powder.

Santa Claus, in collaboration with toy designers and manufacturers, is getting ready a whole batch of new and different toys for Christmas. It's enough to make any parent turn grey just thinking about it.

In his sack this year are items that will (a) give kids grown-up ideas; (b) make lots of new noises; and (c) create revolutionary types of mess around the house. All this is not calculated to build peace at home and good will toward Santa.

There is, for example, a new game. It is pegged on the idea of inflated. Included is a generous supply of toy money, with bills up to and including $100,000. After an afternoon playing with these, a child is apt to sneer at his allowance.

There are two interesting new dolls. One has hair that can be dyed any color, then washed out under the bathroom faucet. The other is a very impressive little girl. Another doll has a knob on her head. You twist it and she can put on three facial expressions. Just like a Hollywood actress.

To wheel the doll around in, there's a new carriage up-hoisted in take-leopard skin. Reminds daughter of the fancy car daddy hasn't got.

Hold Everything

A hold-everything box of wood with flower sprays and lace sculptured plaster-trimings can be used for jewelry, cigarettes, candy.

Warm Comfort Needed Most In Baby Gifts

Merry Christmas to a brand new batch of babies. And there's baby booty galore to say it with at the local stores. Complete layettes to win smiles from cherub and proud mother alike are available plus scores of baby "separates." Whatever your choice, be sure you look for warmth and comfort first. Snuggly baby huggings, gertrudes, robes in toasty flannelette are baby necessities that win plaudits from mothers. Dainty, batiste dresses for Christ-was and "visiting" may be had in every price range and these are lovely as they are practical. Baby undies are always needed and make very welcome gifts. In fact, baby's Christmas should be no problem at all. It's almost impossible to choose a white elephant because the keynote of baby's wardrobe, like everyone else's, is serviceability and practicality first.

Easy Wreath

You can make a wreath of evergreen rope, tie with a big red bow and decorate with a Santa Claus of red yarn.

Onions Old Tradition As Festive Table Item

Onions, creamed with butter or any good way, are a traditional dish at Christmas. And there's a large crop ready for your eating.

GLAZED ONIONS

(Serves 6)

One and a half pounds small white onions, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon sugar, salt and pepper, 1 tablespoon flour.

Wash and peel onions. Melt butter in frying pan, add onions, and a mixture of water and sugar. Season with salt and pepper, and simmer gently 15 minutes or until tender. Add a paste of flour and two additional tablespoons water, mixing well. Cover and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

STUFFED ONIONS

(Serves 6)

Six large onions, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 cup chopped nuts, watercress, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup grated cheese, 1/2 cup cooked rice or bread-crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, melted, red and green pepper slices.

Parboiled onions 20 minutes; remove a small portion from center, fill with a mixture of celery, nuts, salt, cheese, rice and butter. Place in baking pan, top with a little extra cheese and greens (F.) for 15 minutes. Garnish with watercress and pepper slices.

From Ellen Oliver, a native Virginian, comes this easy suggestion: Wash medium onions all of same size. Place in baking dish. Spread with brown sugar and butter. Cover tightly. Bake slowly until tender. Size of your family determines number of onions.

Still the most popular theme for modern Christmas cards is the Nativity scene. Hundreds of interpretations have appeared, many of which are reproductions of the old masters.

Pattern Sales Booming

Hand Work Stretches Tight Gift Budgets

Because the hand-made gift fills gaps in the Christmas-needwork and sewing supply counters are scenes of big booms.

Needpoint addicts, looking for new fields to conquer, are making button shippers which, monogrammed or initialed, make swank additions to loungers' wardrobes.

Crochet hooks are devouring thread by the box to fill out Christmas lists with gifts of chic hand-made hats, bags and smart household accessories, including fillet monograms for the bride-to-be's hope chest.

Mastering the thrifty art of making a little look like a lot, women are wheeling out the sewing machine to convert small pieces of material into handsome gifts; are hauling out attic junk to transform with carpenter's tools and paint brush into welcomed furniture and objects.

Many sewing machine tricks are learned at local sewing centres where you can learn to make bean-bags for kindergarten children by using two pieces of bright felt, cut in the shape of fruits, vegetables and animals; how to give old clocks a face-lifting with slip-covered cuckoo houses made of cardboard and burlap; and how to turn out with little effort and small expense, smart, closed ensembles, garment bags, padded hangers and garment shields which cost a small fortune to buy.

And at needlework departments you'll find any number of perfect presents for the lady who likes to do handwork. Also for the lady who likes to fashion her own clothes, store shoppers suggest picking up bargain priced remnants of fabulous fabrics which she'll delight in turning into gilet and glove ensembles, huge high-styled draw-string bags or hand-detailed blouses.

Table Cooler

A gift any man will welcome is this cork-jacketed glass "table refrigerator" which chills a bottle in a hurry.

Kiddies' Clothes Can Be Gay Gifts

Practical parents—think in terms of new, warm clothes for their little ones, but brightness and gaiety need not be sacrificed. Little girls love to look just like mother, so why not give a warm quilted robe, slatted in bright prints, in snug tie-front style. For the boy about the or one in colorfully-patterned blanket cloth. Both little boys and girls love the soft, warm feeling of flannelette, and a smart gift would be a pair of warm pyjamas, with booties attached for extra warmth.

A pound of raisins, prunes, apricots, peaches or pears all measure about 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 cups fruit; a pound of whole spiced almonds or cut-up candied fruits and peels about 3 cups; a pound of whole shelled walnuts or pecans about 4 cups.

Cornsticks Easy; Add Festive Touch

By GAYNOR MADDOX,
NEA Staff Writer

To add a festive touch to the big feast on Christmas, serve cornsticks. They are easy enough to make, too.

CORNSTICKS

Two cups cornmeal, 1/2 cup flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one egg, well beaten, 1 1/2 cups milk, four tablespoons butter, melted.

Mix dry ingredients together. Add milk to well-beaten eggs and stir into dry ingredients. Add melted butter. Heat cornstick irons and grease well. Fill each "stick" two-thirds full of batter. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Makes about 18 cornsticks.

Try Salsify To Freshen Yule Menu

Salsify—maybe you call it water plant—is a tough-tackled little vegetable not nearly so well known and appreciated as it deserves to be. Its flavor is delicate and delightful. Here are several recipes for serving it.

CASSEROLE

(Serves 6)

Two pounds salsify, one cup cream sauce, dash thyme or basil, one teaspoon minced parsley, one tablespoon grated cheese.

Scrub, wash and scrape the salsify. Cut into quarters lengthwise. This root turns brown very quickly, so, immediately after scraping, drop into cold water to which is added two or three tablespoons of vinegar. Drain, cook in small amount boiling salted water until tender, about 20 to 30 minutes. Drain. Arrange in shallow baking dish. Serve with cream sauce and cheese.

BLACK OYSTERS

(Serves 6)

Two pounds salsify, cooked, one egg, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, dash paprika, bread crumbs.

Prepare and cook salsify according to directions above. Drain and mash. Add egg, salt, butter, paprika. Shape into little patties. Dip in bread crumbs. Sauté in small amount of butter or fry in deep fat.

Jewelry for Men Comes in Variety

Good-looking well-made jewelry is still favored by men and this Christmas season—men's shops offer a varied assortment as in other years. Cuff-links, watch chains, tie clasps and money clips are on the available list, and many of these come with spaces ready for his initials, which can be bought separately and slid into place while you wait.

Luxury Bag

Last word in luxury is this Maximilian-designed exclusive shoulder strap bag decorated with a jeweled pin. Emine tail trimmed headband gives it an ensemble look.

Colors Liven Recipes

You may want a few bright red recipes to help carry out the Christmas season color scheme in your menus.

Cranberry Cocktail

Two cups of cranberries, 2 cups water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, and 1 cup gingerale.

Cranberry Cider

Mix one part of cranberry juice with two or three parts of apple juice and sweeten to taste.

Cranberry Marble

One and one-half cups milk, 1 package vanilla freezing mix, 1/2 cup whole cranberry sauce.

Beat contents of package of vanilla freezing mix into milk with rotary beater until dissolved. Pour into freezing tray. When frozen firm, remove from tray to bowl. Break up with fork. Beat with electric or hand beater until fluffy.

Put frozen dessert in refrigerator tray. Break up cranberry sauce with a fork and spread sauce on frozen dessert. Carefully spoon dessert over cranberries to produce a marbled effect. Continue freezing. Freeze until firm but pliable.

Cranberry Ice

One package raspberry sherbet mix, 1 cup cranberry juice cocktail, 1 cup water.

Measure cranberry juice cocktail and water into a bowl. Add contents of package. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved.

Put mixture in refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove tray to bowl.

Break up into large lumps with a fork. Beat with rotary beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. If frozen too hard, place in refrigerator just before freezing compartment to soften.

BIRDS NOT FORGOTTEN
In Sweden and Norway both birds are given special remembrance. A choice sheaf of grain is placed on a pole or on fence posts. . . . bits of suet are hung on the trees—for a gala Christmas treat for the birds.

Supper: Cold boiled tongue, creamy horseradish sauce, macaroni and cheese, grapefruit salad, hot rolls, party devil's food, coffee.

Supper: Roast turkey, cranberry sauce, scalloped potatoes, old-fashioned cole slaw, hot buttered bread, macaroni-baymian cream, wreath cookies, coffee.

Supper: Swedish meat balls, potatoes with parsley, braised carrots, endive salad, hot molasses-tortie, coffee.

Her barbecue sauce for beef is an answer to many a hostess' prayer.

One-half cup butter or salad oil, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup chili sauce, 1 cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 clove garlic, peeled and minced, 1 lemon slice, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Combine ingredients and cook over low heat until thoroughly blended. Roast may be brushed with this while cooking, or sauce may be served separately.

JULIENED VEAL

Three to four pounds knuckle of veal, herb bag, three onions, chopped, two tablespoons sliced celery, two carrots, whole, one lemon, unpeeled, gelatin.

The knuckle must have two pounds meat and gristle on it; the well-cooked gristle adds much to this dish. Have the butcher crack the bones well. Especially the marrow bone. Cover with hot water. Add herb bag, onion, celery, whole carrots and the lemon cut in slices.

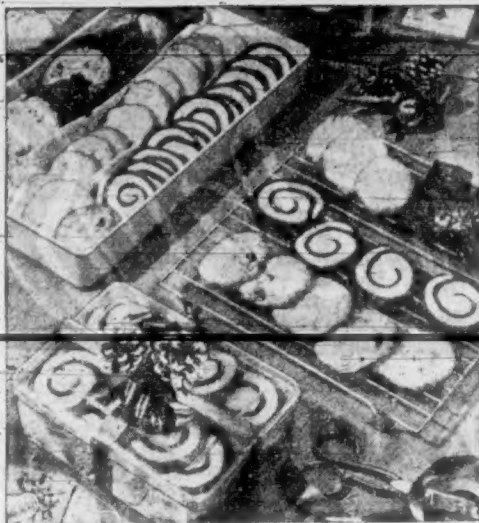

Cover and simmer slowly until liquid is reduced to half, and meat is tender but not stringy, about 2 1/2 hours. Add salt and pepper at the end of first hour. Have ready a mold rinsed in cold water. Take all meat and gristle off bones, and scrape out all marrow; put meat in a pan, discard lemon and herb bag and carrots. Add soaked gelatin to the stock—half tablespoon gelatin to one pint stock—and pour over the meat to fill mold. Chill. Turn out on lettuce garnished with pickles, sliced tomatoes or pickled beets.

Lullaby Lamb

For insomnia sufferers, a fluffy white cotton Plaid Jumper lamb that plays a sleep-inducing lullaby.

SWISS AUNT ANGEL

Swiss children eagerly wait for their gifts to come from a radiant angel who rides in a sleigh drawn by six reindeer.

These delicious holiday cookies are equally suitable for Christmas gifts or for your own parties.

For Gifts or Parties

Cookies From Cake Mix Offer Eye-Filling Appeal

As Christmas gifts or for your own holiday parties, a high of beautifully flavored and eye-appealing cookies is a festive thought.

Here is the triply tested recipe for the pinwheels, swirls of chocolate and vanilla, made easily with white and devil's food cake mix.

Party Pinwheels
(10 to 12 Dozen Pinwheels)

To make white cake dough: One-half cup butter or margarine (at room temperature), 1/2 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract, 1 egg yolk, unbeaten; 1 package instant white cake mix.

Cream butter until soft. Add flavoring and egg yolk; blend. Then add cake mix and work together with spoon, pastry blender, or fingers until dough is formed. (Dough will be firm like pastry.)

To make chocolate dough: One-half cup butter or margarine (at room temperature), 1/2 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract, 1 egg yolk, unbeaten; 1 package devil's food cake mix.

Cream butter until soft. Add flavoring and egg yolk; blend. Then add cake mix and proceed as directed above.

To make pinwheels: Roll half

Practical Gifts Popular Among Men of Family

Practical Christmas gifts are always popular, especially when it comes to buying things for the family. Uncle Joe and brother Bob. If they haven't yet dropped a hint about what they'd like to find under the tree, be on the safe side and buy them only what they really need or can use.

Shirts, pajamas, handkerchiefs, socks and gloves are always a good bet. But keep in mind just what colors and patterns he prefers. If he always wears plain white or blue broadcloth shirts, don't give striped ones because you happen to like them better. White handkerchiefs are most acceptable, and you find that even rayon ones that look just like linen are about as fine, soft and absorbent as linen—and much less expensive.

Maybe his lounging or bathrobe is worn thin at the elbows and frayed at the cuffs. If you don't wait too long, you'll find the shops have quite an extensive line of good quality rayon bathrobes in solid colors and prints, tailored ones in all-wool flannel and others equally as good looking in wool and rayon mixtures.

Parties Simplified By Buffet Menus

By GAYNOR MADDON

This is the season for friendship—and that means parties. My long-time friend, Edith Barber, known all over the country for her ideas on food and entertaining, has just written a valuable and inexpensive little book called "The Party Sampler."

"We've been to her parties and they were good. So is her book. Here are some of her buffet supper menus (styled to please men and women).

Supper: Baked glazed ham, casseroles of sweet potatoes, tossed green salad, buttered eye and white bread, pumpkin or lemon meringue pie, coffee.

Supper: Cold boiled tongue, creamy horseradish sauce, macaroni and cheese, grapefruit salad, hot rolls, party devil's food, coffee.

Supper: Roast turkey, cranberry sauce, scalloped potatoes, old-fashioned cole slaw, hot buttered bread, macaroni-baymian cream, wreath cookies, coffee.

Supper: Swedish meat balls, potatoes with parsley, braised carrots, endive salad, hot molasses-tortie, coffee.
